We have some very creative and imaginative members in our club and the the firewood challenge has let them shine. A great effort from all those who were able to take part. Unfortunately we will need to wait til next publication for results and photos.

Also check out some of the tricky projects that some members have undertaken. Obviously there is more to life than bowls!

Tomorrow is our next Working Bee and it would be great to see as many as possible there

Otherwise its business as usual. Keep up the good work everyone.

Working Bee

8 July

Maintenance and muffins.

Dont forget. Tomorrow is the day

More polishing cloths please.

We are getting very low on polishing cloths. If you have some lying around at home, the club would appreciate having them lying around where we can make use of them.

Thanks very much!

Eggs and Bowl

Colin was asked to turn some duck eggs. He went way beyond the brief by setting them in a bowl with an impressive Japanese style decoration

Inside out turning
Inside out turning is a difficult concept to grasp. It plays havoc with your mind.

David has trained his mind to see the end result with this excellent Rimu candlestick

Bill also seems to have mastered the technique with his piece.

Ask these guys for some pointers

And another one from Bills ever busy lathe. Another tricky project. He hardly lost any fingers at all

And John had an order for scoops this week

Gordon has created this great 300 mm bowl from his not-so-secret stash of Rainbow Poplar

Christmas Market Elliott Park, Nawton,
SATURDAY 2nd DECEMBER (Rain date Sat 9th Dec)

For those who were involved last year, we had a successful and enjoyable market day during this event. If you are interested in being involved and selling some of your turnings, please contact

For extra points...

What is the name of the insect that bores holes in the Puriri tree?

Last weeks answer

The patterns of mould growth in wood are called spaulting.
